Sinc Nesbitt appointed to AH&M council

by Jerry Grozelle

A municipal politician with experience on two local councils has been appointed to fill the vacancy on Anson, Hindon and Minden council. Sinclair (Sinc) Nesbitt will serve for the remainder of this term of office.

Nesbitt, who says he's semi-retired from the logging business, is a life-long resident of Haliburton County. He served as councillor of Stanhope for two years prior to stepping up to reeve, a position he held for 10 years. He was also elected as reeve of Anson, Hindon and Minden for two terms, retiring from municipal politics about seven years ago. During his tenure as reeve of Stanhope, Nesbitt served a year as warden of Haliburton County.

Nesbitt was born at Blairhampton and with the exception of a stint in the army during World War II, he has always lived and worked in Haliburton County.

Nesbitt says he was encouraged by several people to stand as a candidate for the vacancy on Anson, Hindon and Minden council, adding, "I never intended to run for office again."

The vacancy was left when former deputy-reeve Lewis Stevens stepped down to take a job in Oshawa.

Services combined

Meeting scheduled for January 26

Support group looking to HHHB board for help

by Andrew Milne

A falling out between members of a support group for the mentally ill and Haliburton's SIRCH corporation may see the funding for a new program go to another sponsoring agency.

The fledgling Haliburton Highlands Health Board (HHHB) — mandated to run hospital and other health care services in the county after its impending incorporation — is among those that may get the nod.

A public meeting to consider the group's future will be held January 26 by the District Health Council (DHC) at Hyland Crest in Minden.

SIRCH is an umbrella corporation in Haliburton, which supports a range of social support services. Last year, a group of 'consumer survivors' — persons who have been treated in mental health institutions, drafted a proposal with SIRCH to start a new service for the support of the mentally ill in the county, to be funded by the Ministry of Health (MOH).

However, shortly after the arrangement was established, there was a rather serious falling out between members of the consumer survivors group and the administration of the umbrella corporation.

The consumer survivors were also clients and volunteers in one of SIRCH's existing support groups — the Haliburton County Counselling Centre (HCCC). In the course of drafting the new proposal, some of those involved raised questions about SIRCH's management of the HCCC.

Following this development, SIRCH fired the HCCC's two counsellors. It was a personnel matter, and no reason for the firing was ever given publicly. Consumer survivors cried foul, and allege the sudden withdrawal of the counsellors was dangerously traumatic for some support group members, leading, in some cases, to suicide attempts.

Since then, members of the consumer survivors group have been lobbying the Haliburton-Kawartha-Pine Ridge District Health Council (DHC) and the Ministry of Health (MOH) to allow them to establish the program under another umbrella, and it would appear they're on the way to getting their wish. By law, the group needs an incorporated agency to sponsor them to draw Ministry of Health funding.

The new project would be funded under an MOH program called the Community Investment Fund (CIF) — a fund designed to provide mental health care in remote areas, like the Haliburton region, which are not served by hospitals with mental health wards.

Consumer-survivor member Ross Partridge says the reason the group wants SIRCH out is that it does not feel the agency is comfortable with the degree of self-determination allowed the consumers themselves under the CIF program. CIF, he says, expects that much of the process and the governing of the organization would be consumer driven.

Says Partridge, "The proviso is that we have to find an alternate sponsor, and that's why we're coming to (HHHB director) Foster Loucks. We've come to the conclusion that the program would work better under a medical model."

Partridge also says he and other members of the group would not be entirely happy if SIRCH were merely allowed to 'bow out quietly' from administering the program.

Rob Moore, of the Ministry of Health Mental Health Programs and Services branch, says the ministry's main concern is that the service be provided. Since the rift between the consumer-survivors and SIRCH seems to be extremely difficult to reconcile, he says, they're looking for someone else to step in.

He also said that nothing he has seen so far has given him reason to feel SIRCH's conduct in the governing of the HCCC warrants investigation.

Says Moore, "To date, we have not found anything in terms of technical flaws or faults. That doesn't mean that everything is resolved in that discussion. We're always open to information... I think our focus has been to solve the problem, and that's what we still want to do. And the problem I'm finding here is that there is an issue in the community about whether the services have been appropriately provided, and that has caused a rift."

Terry Goodwin, of SIRCH's advisory committee, says he feels much of what is being seen here are growing pains — the inevitable result of so drastic a change in the way mental health services are to be delivered.

Says Goodwin, "I think part of it is that for so many years the mentally ill had no voice. The professionals did everything for them... Some of what we're going through are just the bumps — the growing pains."

The public meeting is January 26, 6:00 pm to 8:30 pm, at the Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home, 6 McPherson Street, in Minden. It will be sponsored by the DHC, SIRCH, the and the HHHB, and all are welcome.

Lack of co-ordinator citedWinter Carnival

by Andrew Milne

The Minden winter carnival will not take place this year.

The event, an annual fixture since 1961, has fallen victim to volunteer burnout. No one could be found to act as coordinator for the event.

Says Anson, Hindon and Minden reeve Jeanne Anthon, "I'm very disappointed. I think everyone realizes how beneficial it was to the community, and one of the key events of the year here, and one that the county admired — the county had even expressed interest in making it a county-wide carnival, and maybe that's what will happen. But particularly considering the history of the carnival,

cancelled

it's a shame that this happened."

The carnival was first established 34 years ago by Wynn Lahay (now Newberry). Ten years later it was taken over by the Kinsmen. Two years ago, a local community group was established to carry it on.

Said Anthon, "What was good about it was most community clubs or organizations assumed a segment of responsibility. So really all we needed was a coordinating person. And we shopped around too — we talked to a lot of people — but no-one seemed to be in the position to do it."

Anthon says she hopes the organizing committee will be able to use the year off to reorganize and rejuvenate the event.

Excitement grows as derby nears

The 1996 version of the Minden Techni-Cal Challenge Sled Dog derby is just a few days away and organizers are crossing their fingers and hoping the weather holds.

Some of the top racers from across North America will be coming to Minden this weekend to test their skills. Drivers from as far as California, the north-eastern United States and across Canada are expected.

"This event attracts the cream of the crop," said Stuart Brandon, one of the organizers. "In the beginning, we got a lot of recreational and amateur racers, but they don't show up any more. The competition is too stiff."

With more than $25,000 up for grabs, the trip is well worthwhile for those who travel long distances. The first place prize in the eight dog class is $3,100 and the first prize for the four dog class is $1,600. The top 20 finishers in each division will receive a cash prizes ranging from the top two mentioned above to a minimum of $100 in the eight dog races and $50 in the four dog class.

"It is a two day, combined time race," Brandon said, "so consistency is vital."

Racing will get under way at 10 a.m. both days. Eight dog racers will leave at three minute intervals, while the four dog racers will leave at two minute intervals.

Mushers from near and far will be competing for a $25,100 purse at the 12th annual Minden Techni-Cal Challenge Sled Dog Derby

Opening ceremonies are slated for 9:45 a.m. Saturday, with many local dignitaries expected. Time of the closing ceremonies will depend on how many racers there are and how fast they complete the course. The estimated time is 4 p.m.

Natural Resources Minister Chris Hodgson will be unable to attend the opening, but he is expected for the closing ceremonies.

The ever popular Kid and Mutt Race will be featured again this year. The race is limited to 20 entries.

"It's one child, one dog and one sled," Bradon said, adding that it is a short course race of about 100 yards.

One concern that Brandon expressed was spectators bringing their family pets to the event.

"The dog teams have a pack instinct," he said. "The other teams don't bother them, but they have a tendency to go after other dogs. I heartily recommend that people don't bring their pets to the derby. It's not only a distraction to the racing dogs; there is also a potential danger. There have been injuries to family pets in the past."

Along with the five organizers, the event boasts about 110 volunteers

Barrie TV station takes special interest in Sled Dog Derby

The New VR (CKVR Television) in Barrie will be spending some time in Minden and area over the next several days. The station will be producing some news slots leading up to this weekend's 12th annual Minden Techni-Cal Challenge Sled Dog Derby.

Reporter Suzanne Legue will be interviewing Steve and Val Lougheed, Tuesday, regarding their preparations and training of their dogs for the event.

Later in the week, Sharon Burkhart will be in Minden for pre-race interviews for the station's news programs.

VR cameras will capture the entire event this weekend, not only for the station's news, but also for a half-hour show which will be aired on February 1 at 9 p.m.

Robert Maxwell and Janie Robinson will co-host the show.

"We'll be covering every aspect of the event, from the volunteers to the economic impact on the community," Maxwell said.

He added that the news slots that will be taped this week will also serve as a preview for the post derby feature show.

Food Bank, Clothing Depot join forces

The Minden Community Food Cupboard and the Minden "Put The Word Into Action" Clothing Depot have joined forces to provide their services from one location. The two services are now located in the Easton's Valu-Mart Plaza in Minden. The official opening of the dual purpose facility was held Wednesday, January 10.

The Food Cupboard was, until recently, operated from St. Paul's Anglican Church on North Water Street.

The two services joined forces to better meet the increasing needs of the community with regard to food and clothing.

"The Food Cupboard has always been a small operation, working out of one little room in the church hall," said Reverend Brian Parker of the Anglican Parish of Minden-Kinmount, of which, St. Paul's is a member congregation. "Now, with recent provincial cutbacks, and rising unemployment, the need to assist local people is on the rise."

Likewise, Reverend Judith Merritt of the Put The Word Into Action Clothing Depot, which has been assisting local people with clothing and many other needs for two years, reports that more and more people are making use of the facility.

The two organizations have found that their focus has been shifting lately. While both ministries were originally targeted for the unemployed and single parent families, today, the "clientele" is made up of what Parker terms "under-employed" people who hold steady jobs, but who can no longer make ends meet because of increased costs of housing, food, clothing and other necessities.

"Both the ministries wish to thank the many service clubs and organizations which have been helping them in the past and continue to do so," Parker said. "We also want to thank Lynda Easton of Easton's Valu-Mart for most generously donating the use of the facility and the council of Anson, Hindon and Minden and reeve Jeanne Anthon for their generous support."

The Food Bank is now operated under a special representative board of management, with membership from all major donor groups.

The new facility will be open for the Clothing Depot on Wednesday afternoons from noon to 5 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to noon. The food bank will be open from 10 a.m. to noon Saturdays. Emergency food needs may also be met during Clothing Depot hours.

Katimavik's next generation arrives

They're in their late teens, early twenties. They're from all around the country, and represent a mix of backgrounds, cultures, and languages. They're from the east and the west, from the rural townships and the city.

They're a few pieces of the Canadian mosaic, in the flesh, and they're in Haliburton for three months, to get to know the people and their culture, help out in the community, add this place to their experience of their country.

They're the next generation at Katimavik — the first one in ten years — the first since the federally-funded program was killed by the Mulroney conservatives back in the eighties. The program has been revised, revamped, and resuscitated, and, once again, Haliburton county is one of the stops on their tour around the country.

They are: Jerome Boucher, of St-Anaclet, Québec; Morgan Conner, of Hamiota, Manitoba; Myriam De Repentigny, of Montréal, Québec; Derek Druhan, of Antigonish, Nova Scotia; Tracy McGregor, of Winnipeg, Manitoba; Lisa McIntosh, of Coquitlam, British Columbia; Kelly McNally, of Hanover, Ontario; Andrew Monk, of Port Franks, Ontario; Alison Reed, of Regina, Saskatchewan; Anne-Marie Vézeau, of Laval, Québec; and Seth Vogan, of Toronto, Ontario. Their group leader, Dave Lawson, was a member of one of Katimavik's 1983 groups.

The idea of the program, in brief, says Lawson, is to give young people an experience of the country — they act as ambassadors for their own communities, get some work experience, do some community work, and maybe pick up a second language on the way.

Each group spends three months in each of three different communities. This particular group just finished up in Moncton, New Brunswick, and arrived in Haliburton January 7. Three months from now, they'll be on their way to Laval, Québec, the last stop on their tour.

In Haliburton, they're staying at the new Katimavik House on highway 121, outside Haliburton — formerly a Jehovah's Witness meeting centre.

Lawson shrugs. The hall, he says, was an ideal size, and he's happy to see it. "But please tell people who we are," he says, laughing. "We're Katimavik, not the Jehovah's Witnesses."

Katimavik, for its part, is resolutely non-denominational, non-sectarian. The mix of people, like most groups, has spent much of its time working on getting along. Ask them, sitting in a group, and it's one question they all answer the same way: "so has it been a problem, getting use to group life?"

"Oh yeah," they all say, laughing.

Lawson, however, says he thinks they're doing pretty well.

The moments they remember, perhaps not surprisingly, seem to reflect the Canadian experience at large. First to come up is the referendum. For the Québécois in the group, it loomed large, and it was hard to watch from outside.

Says De Repentigny, "It touched us all, but it touched us more than the others in the group. I think maybe we were not [dealing with it] at the same level."

It's a great place to pick up another language, they say. The francophones are picking

Anson, Hindon and Minden council notes

No indoor fireworks

Council of Anson, Hindon and Minden adopted a policy prohibiting the use of pyrotechnics (fireworks) inside municipal facilities.

The policy is a precaution in case someone decides that if fireworks are allowed in the Skydome they should be acceptable in such places as the Minden Arena.

Dog pound

Ivan and Jo Ellen Ingram have offered "a reasonable solution" to the municipality's loss of dog pound services. Council decided to accept the Ingrams' offer. They will house and feed impounded dogs at a cost of not more than $10 per animal per day.

Services required?

The need to have by-law enforcement officer Doug Schell on duty for the Minden Sled Dog Derby weekend was questioned at council Thursday.

Should Schell be available at the sled dog races to help ensure that spectators don't allow their pets to interfere with the dogs competing in the races? And, does he have the authority to prohibit anyone from bringing dogs to the event?

Those were two of the questions raised at the council meeting.

Since there hasn't been an official request from the event's organizers to have the by-law enforcement officer in attendance, the need to have him there at all was also questioned. It was pointed out that Shell isn't paid overtime for such services, but he is given time off for time worked.

"There is no paper trail saying that the Sled Dog Committee wants or needs the services of our by-law officer," said councillor Daryl Moore.

Moore also questioned whether or not anyone has the authority to tell people they can't walk their dog (on a leash) in Minden because of this special event.

Councillor Jerry Rome suggested that people would be more likely to comply with the request of a uniformed by-law enforcement officer than that of derby officials.

Public works superintendent Clayton Cameron said he has seen pets interfere with the racers in the past.

Members of the Minden Area Police Support Association will be assisting with traffic control and other duties during the event.

Nesbitt chosen from list of five candidates

Councillor Jerry Rome moved up to the deputy-reeve position through a vote of council members, leaving his councillor position open.

Council's decision not to hold a by-election was based on economics. The cost would have been in the neighbourhood of $20,000.

Nesbitt was chairman of the planning and restructuring committee and although he won't sit on county council, he says he will be happy to provide any input that may be asked of him.

With two years remaining in this term of municipal council, Nesbitt says he expects some big changes in the way the municipalities are governed before the term is over.

"It will be either four municipal governments or one county government by then," he speculated.

He says the county can't afford to continue with 10 municipal governments and a county level as well.

A total of five people were considered for the councillor position.

Reeve Jeanne Anthon said Nesbitt's previous experience and the fact that he is a highly regarded and respected member of the community influenced the decision to appoint him to council.

"He was chairman of the restructuring committee when he was on county council," Anthon said. "Although he won't be on county council, his experience will certainly help."

Anthon said that it was heartening that five people were interested in serving on council for the remainder of the term. She added that she is confident that Nesbitt is an excellent person for the position and that his personality is compatible with the other members of council.

Mush on Minden

Well, here we go again. Minden and the Haliburton Highlands are ready to play host to one of the premier events in the sled dog racing world. The term 'world class' is one that has been used far too often in recent years and, to a large degree, has lost its value. However, judging by the reaction from outside the community, from racers and race organizers, from the interest shown by the media all over North America, what is about to unfold on the streets of this community does indeed merit that title.

Perhaps even more inspiring is the continuing response of the community to the annual sled dog derby. One indication of just how much the event has become a part of the community's life was evident by the attendance at last week's volunteer meeting. The room was filled with citizens eager to spend two days standing out in the cold and snow to ensure the derby is the best this community can offer. The enthusiasm and dedication of these people and countless others, who miraculously seem to know when and where they are needed, is what in our mind makes this event truly one that can be called world class.

A pie in your face

How do you govern a nation that has 265 different kinds of cheeses.

Charles de Gaulle

Sigmund Freud once posed the most poignant question of all time--from a man's point of view. "What," asked the Viennese psychoanalyst, with just a trace of hysteria in his voice, "do women want?"

English-speaking Canadians have been asking themselves a variation of that question for as long as I've been alive. "What," we want to know, "do the French want?"

We refer of course, to what used to be French Canadians. Specifically, the Quebecois who have made an art form of standing at the front door, jangling the car keys in their hand, lamenting that they're not happy with the marriage.

But not doing a helluva lot to make it better.

French-Canadians are not the same as French-French but they share some common characteristics.

For one thing, they insist that Jerry Lewis is a comic genius. Paris conferred the Legion of Honour medal on the guy a few years back.

The Gallic temperament also displays an affinity for political leaders that most people find baffling. France recently elected Jacques Chirac as president. Chirac immediately responded by single-handedly the most nightmarish practice of sabre-rattling humankind has ever invented--the pastime of exploding nuclear bombs.

In other people's back yards, of course.

Our French--the Quebecois--persist in deifying as leader a man who would probably be in jail for treason in any other country. Lucien Bouchard is a man who has bolted his party not once, but three times. He has betrayed his best friend (okay, it was only Mulroney), at his greatest hour of need. He has served as, and accepted a salary for, representing this country as ambassador to France, Federal Minister of Environment and Leader of the Official Opposition.

And he is doing everything in his power to see that the country does not survive.

Black'n White

by Arthur Black

I don't know what "glories" Lucien Bouchard

will go on to achieve, but for me the abiding image will be of a man mocking and jeering the tens of thousands of Canadians who flocked to Montreal at the eleventh hour of the last/latest Referendum to show their love of an undivided Canada.

As Ivor Novello once said, "There's something Vichy about the French." There was a recent court case in Aix-En-Provence which saw a man go on trial for hurling a cream pie at Philippe Douste-Blazy, who happens to be France's Minister of Culture.

What do you charge a cream-pie hurler with? Pastrycide? Conspiracy to commit baking? Attempted pie slaughter?

The French penal code has a designation. Jan Bucquoy was charged with "outrage to a public personality."

Jan Bucquoy's lawyer argued that throwing pies at public figures was a European tradition that dates back to the Middle Ages.

"For many people, it is an honour to have pies thrown at them," Bucquoy declared stoutly.

In the end he was acquitted. The cream pie you see, missed its intended target. It sailed right past the Minister of culture and caught one of the minister's bodyguards flush on the puss.

In France it is okay to commit "an outrage" on the bodyguard "to a public personality."

Case dismissed.

Sort of reminds me of Jerry Lewis.

It would be funny if it wasn't so pathetic.

Ecotourism students help outHands-on experience in event planning

by Andrew Milne

For the thousands who will show up for the annual sled dog derby in Minden this week, the event might offer an opportunity to get out of the city, a chance to see old friends, even a regular ritual — a pilgrimage made year after year.

For Stephanie Pratt, Eric Liphardt, and Trish Wyman, it's an assignment — albeit one they were happy to get.

Pratt, Liphardt and Wyman are students in Sir Sandford Fleming College's groundbreaking ecotourism program. They're volunteering to help with the organization of the derby as part of a course on event management.

Ecotourism is a relatively new concept — it includes tourism that is carried on in an ecologically friendly manner, and incorporates adventure, and learning about cultural or natural history.

Its standard bearers say it's also a trend whose time has come, and that Canada in general, and the Haliburton region in particular, have vast untapped potential for making use of the concept in creating and marketing tourist experiences. College instructor, Al McPherson, is boundlessly enthusiastic about the potential for ecotourism, and thoroughly proud of the college's program — one of the first of its kind, he says, in the country.

Assisting in the organizing of a community event is part of the curriculum in the event management course. Assisting at the derby was a popular choice, with far more volunteers than spots. Pratt, Liphardt and Wyman won their spots in a class lottery.

So far, say Liphardt and Pratt, the value of being involved has been in the hands on experience, learning the people skills, observing and assisting in resolving the continual logistical difficulties that come with the organizing of an event of the derby's scale.

They've attended planning meetings with the event organizers, and helped promote the event during the Santa Claus Parade. They've been having fun so far, and like what they see in the event's community organizers.

Says Pratt, "I've been really impressed — they've done a really good job at keeping it fun."

Working with a team of people who've been doing it so long, says Pratt, also has its benefits. "It's almost like a family," she says. "They've been doing this for years, and they all have their jobs and they know what needs to be done."

They're still working, they say, on just how much an event like this has to do with ecotourism, but they have been able to make a few suggestions for 'greening it up'. Says Liphardt, "There's a few things — we tried to suggest that people bring their own mugs instead of using styrofoam cups. We're hoping that in the future they'll try to use recycled paper. We're looking into getting recycling bins for Friday and Saturday."

"The benefits are, first of all, less impact on the environment. Second, it's an outdoor experience, and it could become more linked to ecotourism. It also spreads awareness — shows that the environment is important to these people, and that might be another way to draw more people. It wouldn't be in itself an ecotourism event, but it could be linked."

While the three have been in on the planning meetings, the hands-on experience starts this week. In fact, many of their classmates have also volunteered to help during the derby. Most will be helping in the pits, bringing teams to the start line. Other will be helping with timing, press relations and start line traffic control.

Race Governor Val Lougheed said she was very pleased with the students' involvement and enthusiasm. "Quite frankly, they brought some fresh ideas to the table, which was great. It was great to have some extra willing hands to carry the load."

Sir Sandford Fleming College ecotourism students Eric Liphardt and Stephanie Pratt have been assisting Minden Sled Dog Derby organizers plan for this year's event. Along with fellow student Trish Wyman, who was unavailable when the photo was taken, they have been closely involved in the planning process. Many of their classmates have also volunteered to help this weekend.

Rudy's Restaurant supports Kinark

Adrian, son of Rudy (center) and Margaret (right) Smit, proprietors of Rudy's at the 118/35 junction, presents Bob Kerr (left), area program director of Kinark Child and Family Services with a cheque for $534. The Smits donated 50 cents, matched by 50 cents of their own, from the price of every entrée sold in the month of December and donated it to the program. Kinark runs a family counselling service, and a children's camp locally. "We just felt that it was a local charity, and not one a lot of people seem to donate to," said Rudy.

up English rapidly, and the anglophones are learning French, eager to learn more on the last leg of their journey. Says Lawson, "I don't really know much more French than I learned at Katimavik... Immersion really works, especially if people commit to the immersion experience. If you have a way out, you usually take it."

Moncton was interesting enough, they say, and an experience if nothing else. They worked in shelters for the homeless, helped out the Kinsmen, and helped at a home for the aged. Most of them had seen poverty before, but still say it was valuable. The work they're expecting in Haliburton, however, they say, is more like what they'd expected in joining — manual labour in the outdoors, clearing trails.

They're aware of the differences that exist between the cultures across the country, the impressions they have of each other. Druhan, from the east coast, says yes, he sees his culture as unique.

Says McIntosh, "I find the same thing from the west coast. I'm the only vegetarian in the group. But a lot of my friends back there are, and a lot of my friends back there are a lot more environmentally conscious — or it's a lot more on their lips... I also see that people in the east have a strong impression of what west coast people are. They think we're all kind of flaky —"

"It works the other way too, though," says McNally.

"Yeah," says Monk, "Everyone seems to have this impression that if you're from Ontario, you're from Toronto. I get that."

So what's the West coast impression of Ontarians? McIntosh laughs.

"High strung, really conservative. Really, really Ontario-proud."

But, they say, they've been quite happy with the welcome they've had here.

Says McNally, "It's weird. A couple of us went to a second-hand store yesterday, and we asked them for something, and they, well, didn't seem that enthusiastic. Then we said we were from Katimavik, and he said oh, great, here, take them all, take them all."

To the community, says McIntosh, "Thanks for the welcome. We feel about as at home as we could without being home."

The group will be doing work related to the area's tourism economy in the coming months. They'll be volunteering at this weekend's sled dog derby, as well as working with the Haliburton Nordic Trails Association, Medeba Adventure Learning Centre, the Haliburton Forest Owners Association, the Municipality of Dysart et al, the Municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden, and the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association.

They're also open, says Lawson, to working in other interesting activities anyone might be willing to propose. Lawson can be reached at 457-2147.

To all on Route 3
Who at Christmas thought of me
Under my tree was piled so high
With everything from special cards
To hand-painted treasures
How much I appreciate this
You could not measure.

Thanks so much,

Novice A Monarchs tournament champs in Bobcaygeon

by Jerry Grozelle

Undefeated in five games, the Minden OMHA novice Monarchs earned the championship of the tournament in Bobcaygeon on January 6 and 7.

Minden 2, Mariposa 1

The toughest game of the tournament for the Minden squad was the opener against Mariposa. After falling behind 1-0 in the first period, the Monarchs were still trailing by that 1-0 margin late in the third period. But Justin Horsley scored the equalizer, unassisted with 1:39 remaining in the period. When the buzzer sounded to end the third period the score was still deadlocked at 1-1.

The two teams played three on three for one minute, then two on two for a minute. It was then down to one on one. Evan Kernohan took the puck from the faceoff and scored to give Minden the 2-1 win and advance the Monarchs into the championship side of the tournament.

Minden 8, Newcastle 0

Minden's second game started six hours after the first, at 3 p.m. Saturday. The Monarchs had little trouble with the opposing team from Newcastle, cruising to an 8-0 victory.

Three goals in the first period, one in the second and four in the third sharpened Minden's focus.

Kernohan paced the Minden assault with four goals and one assist. Mark Fisher added two goals and singles went to Justin Horsley and Cory Simms. Horsley, Kolt Smith and Matt Allore each picked up one assist.

Ryan Cole earned the shutout between the Minden pipes.

Minden 4, Fergus 0

The Monarchs took to the ice again at 10 o'clock the next morning against Fergus. Cole notched his second shutout of the tournament when the Monarchs skated to a 4-0 win over Fergus.

Kernohan scored the first goal with two and a half minutes left in the first period. Fisher and Daryl Arbour assisted.

Horsley made it 2-0 late in the second, from Fisher and Smith.

It took just seven seconds of the third for Fisher to put the Monarchs in front by a three goal margin. Kernohan and Jeremy Upton set that one up.

Bantam B Monarchs win one, lose one

The Minden bantam B Monarchs competed in a hockey tournament at Honeywood (north of Orangeville) on January 4.

The local boys started off with a 4-2 win over Ayr in the first round. Winners in the first round advanced to the championship round, while losing teams went on to the consolation round.

The Monarchs met Collingwood in their first game of the championship round. The opposition prevailed by a 6-4 margin in that game, eliminating Minden from further competition.

The host Honeywood team defeated Collingwood for the championship and the consolation title went to Alliston with a win over Ayr in the final.

The stats from Minden's two games were: Cory Bull and David Byrnes had two goals and one assist each; Mike Hamilton notched one goal and one assist; Shawn Casey and Rod Upton netted one goal and one assist apiece; Chris Little had one goal; Cam Neville picked up three assists; Stephen Hutchinson and Dan Vanderlip notched one assist each.

The team scored eight goals and gave up eight.

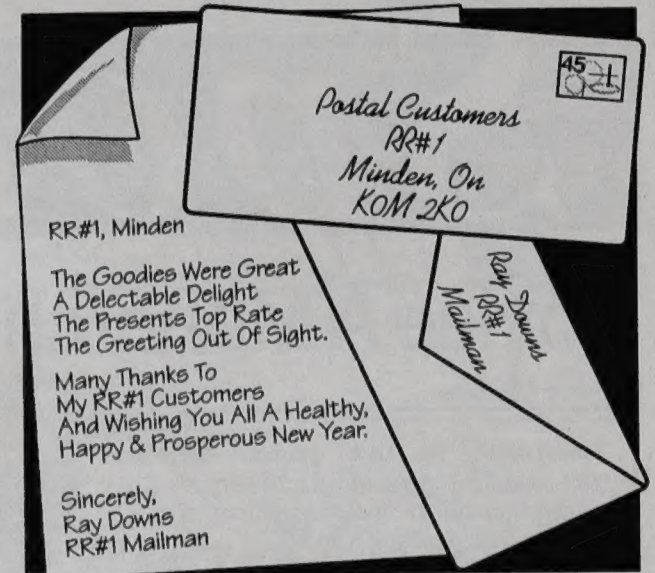

Goalie Adam Payne had a 4.00 goals against average.

Most of the games were evenly matched throughout the tournament. One game was still tied after a five-minute overtime period. It was decided in a shootout.

Minden picked up a total of 12 penalties in the two games, with the referees calling the games closely. Tempers flared and Minden took a game misconduct in the game against Ayr and a 10-minute misconduct in the match with Collingwood.

"All in all, the team played very well, having a bench of only seven or eight players skating for the biggest part of both games," said Monarchs' manager Roger Hutchinson. "Although the team has not chalked up many wins this season, it has done extremely well considering the number of players usually on the bench at any given time. No one is complaining about a lack of ice time these days.

"Appreciation is extended to sponsors Carnarvon Lumber, Miner's Bay Plumbing and Modern Electric, who contributed financially to this tournament and to an upcoming tournament in Bancroft on April 6," Hutchinson concluded.

22-goal shootout ends in a tie

by Jerry Grozelle

Times 11, KDD 11

Twenty-two goals and no winner. That's what happened when The Times tangled with Kountry Double D in the first game of the Minden Men's Hockey Association schedule after the Christmas/New Years break.

The Times and KDD skated to an 11-11 deadlock in the first of three MMHA games January 8 at the Minden arena.

A commanding lead of 7-3 was built up by The Times by the end of the first half. KDD kept chipping away at the opposition's lead throughout the second half, finally scoring three in a row in the last few minutes to salvage the tie.

Craig Crowe paced The Times with five goals and one assist. Craig Smith added a hat trick and one assist, while Jamie Dollo notched two goals and six assists and Jeff Black scored one and helped set up four. Goaltender Lopez and Dave Ward had one assist each.

Newfer Burke scored four of the KDD goals and assisted on two more. Monty Miscio netted a hat trick and Fraser Rogers potted a pair of goals and three helpers. Single markers were added by Spade Stamp and Ed Gibbons, each of whom also notched a pair of assists. Glenn Hall, Tran LaRue and Sheldon Stevenson had one assist apiece.

one assist. Bern Berry and Scott Bailey were the other marksmen for the Stamp team, each with one goal. Bailey had two helpers and Berry had one. Steve McCracken earned three assists and Barry Smith had one.

Scott Hamilton and Lawrence Lougheed replied with two goals each. Dean Sisson got the other goal. Kevin Hamilton and Dave Dollo picked up two assists each and Scott Nesbitt had one.

Westside 4, Home 4

Westside Jug City and Home Hardware skated to a 4-4 draw in the evening's late game.

Westside scored first and the two teams alternated goals to the end. Westside held the lead four times only to see Home Hardware tie it up each time.

Paul Walker scored half of the Westside goals and added one assist to his total. John Walden and Tom Hewson were the other Home sharpshooters, with one each. Kim Hamilton picked up two assists and one each went to Kent Taylor, John Fedeski, Doug Schell and Tom Haley.

Charlie Teljeur netted two Home replies, with Terry Allore and Ben Manuge scoring singles. Manuge also had two assists, as did Gary Harrison. Tom Miscio and Dave Hartwick had one helper each.

Stamp 12, Hartwick 5

Sid Stamp Fuels built up a 6-1 first-period lead on the way to a 12-5 victory over Hartwick Construction in the evening's second game.

Ivan Ingram was the big gun for the winners, scoring five goals and assisting on five more. Dennis McKee helped the cause with four goals and

New owner takes over at VanLieshout office

Happy to be back in the Highlands

"I'm happy to be returning to Haliburton. This opportunity allows me to raise the quality of life for my family in this solid community."

With those words, Anthony Van Lieshout expressed one of the main reasons he has moved from the hustle of Toronto back to the community where he was raised. At the first of the year he took over the real estate and appraisal business his father started in 1977 and is obviously pleased to be back.

Anthony is the son of Larry VanLieshout. He spent the past 11 years in Toronto where he attended Sheridan College studying Business Administration and Marketing as well as selling real estate for over ten years.

The return to the community was a relatively easy one for Anthony. While he was successful in the city, being named one of the top 100 agents across Canada, his heart was always in the Highlands. The pace and style of business in the city and his growing family, convinced him that the time had arrived to come home.

Anthony and his wife Juliene have three children, nine month old Justin, three-and-a-half year old Tiffany and four-and-a-half year old Amanda.

After a lengthy discussion with his elder brother, Wilf, who is also a real estate agent at the Haliburton office, the decision was made to purchase the business. "I'm extremely grateful to my brother who unselfishly stepped aside and allowed me this opportunity," Anthony noted.

The VanLieshout name is already well known through real estate circles in the Highlands. Anthony's father moved to the community in 1973 and has been operating his own business since 1977. "Dad created a strong and respected business in the community and I plan to continue the level of professionalism he has established, providing an even higher level of service," Anthony said.

While he is now the owner, Anthony sees his position as part of a team which includes all staff members and the continued support and experience of his father. In addition to holding his broker's licence, he also has his Canadian Residential Appraiser Certificate, making Anthony and Larry the only two active real estate agents in the county with that designation. He notes that with more than 20 years of appraisal experience in the Highlands, the VanLieshout office offers vendors and buyers alike a valuable resource in making their real estate decisions.

While Anthony is aware of the high quality of service the VanLieshout office has provided over the years, he hopes to raise that level even more. "We have over 40 years of real estate experience within our family and we plan to build on that," he commented. Anthony said he approach will be to put the needs of the clients first in all transactions. "I will be personally responsible to ensure all clients receive preferential treatment," he said and has added his own guarantee to the process. "If a buyer is not satisfied with his or her purchase in the first six months, I will sell it for them free of charge. Likewise, if a seller lists a property with us and is not completely satisfied with the service we provide, the contract can be terminated on the spot."

Anthony is looking forward to being a part of the community and is already pleased with the sense of cooperation within the local real estate community. He noted that there is a highly competitive nature to the market in the city which creates a less than friendly attitude within the industry. Back in the Highlands he has already noted a different feeling. He admits that to a certain extent he is competing with the other offices in the area, but he is also eager to work with the other agents and brokers to make it a better market for everyone.

Under Anthony's ownership, the businesses will be known formally as VanLieshout Realty Limited and Haliburton Appraisal Services. The office is located on Highland Street in Haliburton, across from the IGA.

Monarchs defeat Lindsay in championship final game

Kernohan rounded out the scoring with an unassisted marker late in the game.

Minden 8, Mariposa 7

The championship semifinal game saw the Monarchs tangle with Mariposa, the team that gave them so much trouble in game one.

In the early going, it appeared Minden had broken Mariposa's spirit with the earlier win.

Although Mariposa kept the game close through the first period, Minden opened up a 7-2 lead by the end of the second. With less than five minutes remaining in the third, the Monarchs held an 8-3 advantage.

Mariposa shifted into overdrive, scoring four in a row to draw within striking distance (at 8-7) with 50 seconds left in the game.

The Monarchs managed to hold Mariposa at bay for the final 50 seconds to preserve the win and advance to the championship final.

Kernohan, once again, was the major thorn in the opposition's side. He scored the first five goals for Minden and assisted on one of the last three. The other Minden snipers were David Petch, Horsley and Fisher. Fisher also picked up three assists. Single helpers went to Horsley, Smith, Andrew Bull, Ryan Vaters, Jason Lyddiatt and Simms.

Minden 4, Lindsay 1

Compared to the two games against Mariposa, the championship game was an anti-climax for the Minden boys, who skated to a 4-1 championship victory.

After a scoreless first period, the Monarchs scored twice in the middle frame with one reply from Lindsay. Two more unanswered goals in the last two minutes of the game added insurance for the Monarchs.

Fisher led the Monarchs to the win, scoring a hat trick. Kernohan scored the other goal and picked up the only assist awarded to Minden in the game, on Fisher's first goal.

Midget A hockey action: Monarchs vs Bobcaygeon and Manvers

Bagshaw scores both goals in Minden win

Not to dwell on a 2-1 loss in Bobcaygeon on January 7, the Minden OMHA midget Monarchs rebounded to down the host team in Manvers the next day, by the same 2-1 score.

After a scoreless first period in Bobcaygeon, it looked like the middle frame would end with no score on the board. But, with 28 seconds left, the home team broke the deadlock, taking a 1-0 lead into the third period.

Minden notched the equalizer at the 7:11 mark of the third. Jeff Wray was the marksman, from Chris Eskelin.

The score remained tied at 1-1 until the last half-minute of the game. With 27 seconds left, Bobcaygeon scored to pull off the 2-1 win.

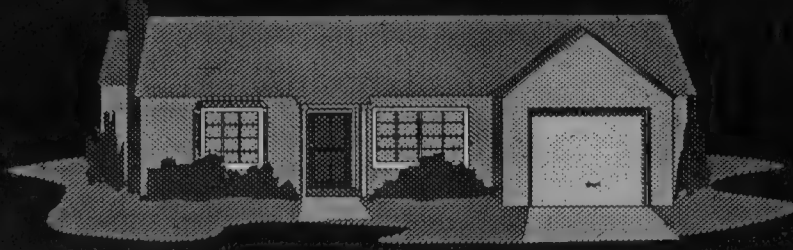

Down in Manvers the next day, the Monarchs took a 1-0 lead less than a minute and a half into the first period on a solo effort by Tom Bagshaw.

That advantage held until the 3:15 mark of the second when Manvers notched the tying goal.

At the end of the middle frame, the score was still even at 1-1.

Bagshaw scored his second goal of the game early in the third. Dave Raback and Tom Neville assisted on that eventual game winner at the 1:46 mark as the Monarchs held the 2-1 lead to the game's end.

Branch 636 rings in 1996

Bonjour!!

January is half over and not a day too soon. It's been cold almost every day and we understand our snowbird friends haven't fared so well, weatherwise, either. My good friend Roy Colliss reported he had to scrape his windshield one morning and that's in Naples Florida, which is just about as far south as you can get on the Gulf Coast without going into the Everglades.

New Year's Eve our Branch held a celebration and I believe everyone had a great time. We had a young disc jockey from West Guilford, Jamie Bacon, who did a fine job of entertaining a bunch of old guys like us. Bertha Kirk donated a beautiful afghan for a door prize which was won by Jean Griffith. There was another prize of Minden Moose Drops won by Mary Coneybeare. I understand she doesn't partake of moose drops and doesn't share much either. Thanks to our members and guests who helped us ring in the new year.

The Branch is now planning parties to be held in conjunction with St. Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day. At Easter we are looking at another very popular turkey and ham roll. Watch The Times for further information.

I apologize that we don't have another profile of one of our members for this issue. Perhaps next month....

The latest edition of "The Legion" magazine (January 1996) has our Branch well represented (and about time too) with our President, Comrade Lloyd Johnson, presenting a $1000.00 cheque to Ginger Kulas of the Haliburton Highlands Dancers Association to assist three of their girls to attend a competition in Scotland this past summer.

Comrade Lloyd also presented a cheque to Lions Club President Brian Moore for the medical clinic. The cheque was for a whopping $10,000. Yea Branch 636--- Yea Minden Lions!

Our Euchre parties are doing well with good attendance, and of course the ladies Auxiliary is serving great lunches each noon hour.

Thanks again to Mrs. Kirk for her donation of the afghan for the New Years party.

Just a reminder, as well, that the popular Friday night Fish and Chips has now returned to the Branch.

Cub's Chuckle

Conversation at the local pub came to an abrupt halt when a horse slowly strode up to the bar. One patron, very much in his cups, turned to the new arrival and asked, "Hey buddy, why the long face?"

Consider your sources carefully

Information Superhighway, Internet, 500 channel universe, virtual reality--in spite of their dazzling promises, people continue to acquire most of their knowledge about the world through the press, radio and television. If the media simply collected and presented facts, events and information, we might have the possibility of sifting through it and selecting what we need to arrive at more informed beliefs and decisions.

Unfortunately, the media do not simply transmit reality, they create it. Journalists pride themselves in their objectivity and balance, yet it is an impossible ideal. A person from China, Russia or Brazil will undoubtedly "perceive" events very differently from a Canadian. As human beings, each of us acquires perceptual filters that are strongly influenced by a plethora of factors such as gender, physical make-up, experience, religion and socio-economic position. Balanced reporting can only be achieved by tolerating a wide range of view points among reporters.

The decision on whether to cover an event reflects someone's values and priorities. At a celebration of the 25th anniversary of CBC television, the former news reader, Norman Depoe, was on a panel to predict the news stories of the future. Each panellist made pronouncements and then Depoe observed that perhaps they were overlooking the real source of news. In his opinion, it was not politicians and business people, but work going on in research labs around the world, that will most profoundly influence people's lives. The other media panellists ignored his remarks, but Depoe's prescience is obvious today as the media breathlessly report on revolutions and breakthroughs with computers, genetic engineering and space research.

Most journalists lack a strong background in science and technology and it shows in what they report. An economist or a business person making a pronouncement on the state of the economy, stock market or next year's boom is far more likely to receive air time than a scientist. So in 1992 when over half of all living Nobel prize winners signed a Warning to Humanity suggesting that we have only ten more years to change our ecological destruction and preserve the underpinnings of our civilization, most media ignored it.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

Late last year, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change made up of leading climatologists in the world, concluded that the planet is in a period of warming and human activity is part of the cause. Yet the media continue to report on global warming as a "theory" or "controversy". Almost all climatologists agree with the IPCC position, yet reports on global warming still tend to include a rare scientist who disagrees, thereby incorrectly suggesting that scientists are evenly split on the reality or cause of global warming.

For most of us, the pace of life has quickened and we want our news bytes increasingly compressed. Preparing for a report on the 1992 Earth Summit in Rio, I looked up a program done on the 1972 Stockholm Conference by The Nature of Things. To my amazement, there were three and four minute interviews with scientists. Today a 40 second interview is considered very long. But as we abbreviate our reports, important information is sacrificed--context, history and significance.

When a speech is reported in papers or TV, the substance of the lecture will not be covered. The reporter must search for the "hook" around which a story will be constructed. Often a throwaway statement made in jest can become the story. For example, when I give public lectures on genetics, I often mention cloning to illustrate genetic regulation. Once I joked, "I'm glad it can't be done yet or the prime minister might want to clone himself." This story was headlined, "Suzuki warns, PM interested in cloning self."

When something happens, the media coverage is determined not so much by its significance as whether there is a reporter and equipment in the area, how much it will cost, or whether there is time for it in the broadcast schedule. And of course, even when a report is filed, the way it is framed and described depends on the reporter and how close he/she can get to it, who is interviewed and what shots are obtained.

Once the story is packaged, the reader or viewer must then decide what items from the onslaught of reports are credible and worth remembering. If we believe a factoid merely because "it was on TV" or "I read it somewhere" we give credibility merely because it exists. But surely a story featured in "Current Affair" or "National Enquirer" should not be consumed the same way as one in "Scientific American" or "Nova".

We are living through an information revolution, but we must be profoundly aware of the nature of information and its purveyors. Otherwise, the world becomes chaotic and unpredictable.

CARDS OF THANKS

THANK YOU

Dear Aunt Heather,
I just wanted to say thank you for taking such good care of me while my Mommy was in the hospital getting me my Christmas present.
All my love,
Billy John XOXOXO
P.S. Daddy, you did a pretty good job too...

Many thanks to everyone for the delicious goodies provided during the Christmas Season.
L.C.B.O. Staff.

Thank you to the staff at Hyland Crest, Illman-Platten Funeral Home, Fenelon Falls, Pastor David Barker, the pallbearers, the ladies of Burnt River for the luncheon and to everyone who sent flowers in memory of Gordon Cavanaugh.
Helen Byne.

GOSTOCK: The family of the late Joyce Beverly Gostock wish to express our sincere thanks to relatives, friends and neighbours for their kind expressions of sympathy during our recent loss. Thanks to all who called, sent cards, flowers and made donations. A special thanks to Rev. Christopher Greaves, Rev. CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to take this opportunity to thank our children for the surprise 50th Anniversary luncheon they gave us on December 30. Thanks you also to Hazel and Nelson Austen, St. Paul's A.C.W., and to all our friends and relatives for all the lovely cards and gifts. Thanks also to Father Brian Parker for taking time out from his busy schedule to wish us well. All of you made our day one to remember.
Jennie and Harry Austen.

Special thanks to all the kind people who helped me when I had my car accident and the kindness shown to me by my friends and family since I got home. I sustained no injuries probably because I was wearing my seat belt. All your concerns are greatly appreciated.
Ruth Kellett.

Our sincere thanks to our family and friends for their cards, gifts and best wishes and for joining us at Wig-A-Mog for our dinner and dance in celebration of our 40th wedding anniversary.
Rica and George Anderson.

IN MEMORIAM

ANDERSON, Wayne - In loving memory of my husband and partner of 39 years, taken home January 19, 1995.

The greatest man I ever knew, I will always love you, Forever and ever, Amen.
Elaine.

HEWITT, Sterling - In loving memory of my young brother taken January 19, 1974 and my dad, Raymond HEWITT the same year, September 19, 1974. Love and miss them always Until we meet again.
Elaine.

JOHNSTON, Alvin Carl - In loving memory of a darling little son and brother who died accidentally January 16, 1964 in his 8th year.

The memory of his dear wee ways Will linger with us all our days; Sweetest flower, too sweet to stay, God took him back to show the way. Sadly missed by Mom, brother and sisters.

MINTO, Helen - January 13, 1985.
Days turn into years, Years pass us by, Loved ones die and leave us We ask the question, Why? Special moments come to mind Put smiles on our face Memories shared, thoughts of joy And still that empty space Where you once sat Or stood next to me To lend a helping hand. But God knew best Where suffering ends To live his Promised Land. Fondly remembered by Ian, Mary, Jennifer and Jim.

IN MEMORIAM

HEWITT, Sterling - January 19, 1974

ANDERSON, Wayne - January 19, 1995.

What can you say to someone who has always been one of the most essential parts of your world, someone who took you by the hand when you were immature and helped to show the way? What do you say to someone who stood by to help you grow, providing love, strength and support? What words would you say if you ever got the chance? Maybe you'd just say "We love you Sterling and Wayne" and hope you understand.
Love,
Bryce, Val, Tina & Chad.

ANDERSON, Wayne - On January 19, 1995, we lost a great Dad and a super Grampa.

Not a day goes by that we don't think about you.

We sure miss you whistling a happy tune And being around to help us solve problems.

We could always count on your help.

Also remembering with love and sadness, our dear uncle Sterling Hewitt, who was taken from us this same day in 1974. Love and miss you always.

Sherry, Bradley, Darnell, Darren, Larry, Sara, Leah, Krysta and Melanie.

IN MEMORIAM

COOPER - In loving memory of Brad Cooper who passed away January 19, 1995.

My heart still aches in sadness And secret tears still flow, What it meant to lose you No one will ever know.

When the days are sad and lonely And everything goes wrong I seem to hear you whisper "Cheer up and carry on".

Each time I see your picture You seem to smile and say "Don't worry, I'm only resting, We'll meet again some day."

We miss you, Your loving family, Madeline, Edward, Nancy, Marnie.
